IML
LABELS

BEER CRATES

Our company has developed several types of products based on different levels of durability. The labels we're producing withstand rough handling, mechanical stress and prolonged outdoor exposure. Materials, colours and adhesives are carefully chosen to meet very high durability requests such as high temperature resistance, caustic soda resistance, acid resistance, scratch resistance etc.

Our durable IML labels are not mass produced, which gives us the opportunity to expand our sales internationally.

We are very proud of our technical team, which consists of specialists with high expertise in this field of production. Thanks to them, we can offer you a range of products.

Our production complies with the EC regulation n.1907 / 2006 (REACH) and the Regulation No. 1272/2008 (CLP)"

Premium Long Life Labels – For the most robust applications we produce thicker labels out of more durable materials. We always laminate these products. In some applications, UV protection can be built into the label's structure or we can add UV protection to the upper surface of the label with a durable UV resistant varnish. This kind of label is used in beer crate or by floor tile businesses.

PREMIUM LONG LIFE LABELS

Considering beer or beverage crates are mostly used for transportation, it is important that they are resistant and durable. This also applies to crate labels, and because of this we are producing premium long life labels. It took us a few years to perfect this product. To get the highest possible outdoor protection we have chosen to use a UV resistant PET material. The product is made to pass the STLB: 2010-11 and DIN EN ISO 4892-2 tests. STLB: 2010-11 DIN EN ISO 4892-2
